

FAE PUBLIC NAMES

Compiled by Arref Mak

NOTES

With inspirations by Roger Zelazny's Lord Demon

Immortal Fae do not give out their names, so they take artistic syllables that are suggestive riddles and clues to who they really are (if you know a hundred languages and dozens of cultures you might see the clues.) Three syllables are usually used for the beauty of the asymmetry in a formal naming; the last two syllables are not a clan/blood/family name. No signature syllable like fae, fey, fai, or such is used at all. These sounds mean 'power' and refer to the entire race.

TITLES

There are elegant and mysterious titles that attach themselves to Fae over time and are not explained. They follow the formal name, as in Kai Wren Hu of the Thousand Boxes. These titles are rare since acknowledging them across clans is a historical honor and requires significant events in the immortal perspective (such as maiming a god.)

1. Who Must Be Obeyed
2. of the Thousand Boxes
3. of the Hundred Eyes
4. of Whispered Lightnings
5. of the Nine Tails
6. Who Shall Walk in Silence
7. of the Thirty-three Riddles
8. of the Ninety Roars
9. the Ever Righteous
10. the Song of Beauty
11. of the Eleven Running Rivers
12. of the Terrible Laugh
13. Who Sings in Dreams
14. So Graceful with Terror
15. of the Stolen Tiger Heart
16. of the River Pearls
17. of the Seven Defeats
18. Who Has Risen Once More Than Fallen
19. Master of Smoke
20. Voice of Khans
